Frankfurt Airport to Hanau

Get on Autobahn 3 towards Munich / Würzburg. Stay on A3 until you see a sign for Hanau / Babenhausen (Road Number 45) and take this exit following the signs to Hanau. After a short distance the road will split. Stay to the right (Road Number 43A) following the Hanau / Fulda sign. Take the exit marked Hanau / Wolfgang. At the top of the exit will be a stop sign. Turn right and take another right at the traffic light. The road will split into two traffic lights, stay to the right (this will force you to turn right).

There will be signs for Pioneer Kaserne which will be ahead on your right at the second light. If you get lost, call: Military Police (06181) 180-2749 or

Force Protection

We take your safety and security very seriously. It's our number one mission. All the caserns are fenced and patrolled. Security guards control entry onto the caserns. Be assured that you will be very safe in the Hanau Community.

As Americans living in Germany we must abide by German laws. Crime exists in Germany just as in any other country. However, there are things that you can do to protect yourself and your belongings. Be alert and aware of your surroundings, blend in and use a fanny pack instead of a purse. Utilize Operation Identification (USA plus SSN) to engrave identifying information on your property. Local authorities, in conjunction with the Directorate of Emergency Services will assist in performing home security evaluations. Everyone requires a military identification card or installation access card to gain entry to the Hanau caserns. All gates are manned by guards wearing blue uniforms. Periodic vehicle inspections are required.

Additionally, POV registration and USAREUR driver's license are checked often. Please cooperate with the guards as they're trying to provide for your safety.

Visitors can obtain installation access only if accompanied by a sponsor:

- A sponsor can sign someone in each time they enter an installation, but the sponsor must escort the guest. The duration of a visit must not be longer than 24 hours, or they must be signed in again. Visitors require a passport or Reisepass.
- A sponsor can have visitors placed on an access roster with 1-week notice.
- A sponsor can procure an installation access pass for the duration of their guests' stay from the Installation Access Control Office in Building 21, Pioneer Kaserne.

Visitors are not allowed to operate USAREUR-licensed vehicles unless approval is given by Customs. You must provide proof of identity and an International Drivers license. Visitors are not permitted to purchase items in AAFES / Commissary facilities due to their inability to pay German VAT Tax.

Arrival procedures

Frankfurt International Airport arrival

Once you have passed through the customs area and claimed your luggage, look for the USO lounge in the lower level of Terminal C. USO staff will direct you to the free shuttle bus to take you to Rhein Main Air Base.

At the 64th Replacement Detachment, there'll be a short briefing. Once in-processing has been completed, you'll board the Sponsorship Bus to take you to your community. Be advised, pets will ride in a luggage rack on the underside of the bus. All soldiers must process through the 64th Replacement Detachment before proceeding on to Hanau. Civilian employees do not process through the replacement detachment. Civilian employees should coordinate with their sponsoring command for transportation from Frankfurt International to home station.

In Hanau

After in-processing through the 64th Replacement Detachment at Rhein Main Air Force Base near Frankfurt, you'll travel to Hanau by bus. If you're picked up from Frankfurt airport by your sponsor, you must in-process through the 64th Replacement Detachment and then proceed to the In-processing Training Center (ITC), Building 20 on Pioneer Kaserne. Following a short briefing and collection of records and documents, you'll be released to your unit. Your sponsor should meet you at ITC to transport you to your lodging. Civilians will not in-process through the 64th Replacement Detachment and will be picked up at the airport by their sponsors. You'll spend your second day in-processing into your unit. On the third day you'll return to ITC and start community in-processing.

Frankfurt Airport

The first stop is the Central Processing Facility, Building 21. These items are required to in-processing at the CPF: reassignment orders, amendments, and endorsements from the 64th RD, military personnel records or related documents for officers, assignment memorandum issued at unit on the first day, medical, dental and veterinary records, finance packet, receipts for all travel expenses and statements of non-availability of government quarters assignment, your unit mailing address, DA Form 4187 from unit authorizing BAS for SSG and below, and a completed DD form 2560 if requesting advance pay.

After in-processing at the CPF you'll return to ITC for 5 - 10 days of community orientation and training. When released from ITC, all of your immediate personal and professional affairs should be in order. Family members are met by the a "Greeter" who attends to any immediate needs.

Spouses are encouraged to participate in the community in-processing briefing. Child care is not provided at ITC, so register online prior to your arrival. Personnel attending ITC classes may utilize hourly childcare slots at the CDCs once their child has been registered with CLEOS. These slots may also be utilized by spouses needing to take the driver's orientation and license exam. Family members arriving on deferred travel are required to report to the CPF, with their sponsor, within five duty days following arrival for supplemental in-processing.

Children

Child care

Children must first be registered through Central Registration in order to use hourly care. You may register for child care online at www.hanau.army.mil. Whether you need full-time child care or periodic care, it's advisable to register as soon as possible. The date of registration online or in-office will determine your placement upon the waiting lists.

Even if full time care is not required, families are encouraged to register online as soon as possible so they may access hourly care in order to attend In-processing Training Center classes. Single parents and dual military parents should be aware that during ITC you may use an hourly child care slot if there is a wait for a full-time slot in your child's age group. Hourly rates are more expensive than full-time slots for many ranks. See the Child and Youth section for information.

Extended day care facilities

Hanau schools offer after-school extra-curricular activities. Please see the Education section for information. After-school child care for children from 1st grade through 11 years of age is provided by the School Age Services and Family Child Care Providers. The Galaxy and Millennium Teen Centers offer activities for middle and high school age youth. See the Child and Teen Services for information.

Schools

There are three elementary schools, one middle school and one high school in the community. Your area of residence determines the elementary school placement. See www.hanau.army.mil for more information on schools.

Argonner Elementary School

- Sportsfield Elementary School, Sportsfield Kaserne
- Gelnhausen Elementary School, Coleman Housing Area
- Hanau Middle School, New Argonner Kaserne
- Hanau High School, New Argonner Kaserne

School registration

To register children for school you will need: passport / birth certificate, up-to-date shot record, travel orders listing family members, sponsor's ID card and previous school records. The school registration form can be printed from the Hanau website, www.hanau.army.mil, and completed prior to arrival.

Families choosing to home-school their children or enroll in host-nation schools must complete a DODDS-E registration form. This form may be obtained from the School Liaison Officer in the Welcome Packet upon arrival, or from your sponsor. This form will be turned in to the School Liaison Officer.

Special education

Hanau is designated as a Category 4 community for the Exceptional Family Member Program and offers all services attendant to that designation. Hanau is not able to support low-incident disabilities

Moving tips

Credit cards

Credit cards are not as widely accepted in Germany as they are in the states. Always look for your card's logo on the store window before you shop.

Employment

If you're interested in employment during your tour in Germany, see the section entitled Employment Overview for information or visit www.hanau.army.mil.

Exceptional Family Member Program

Everyone on orders to Europe must complete an Exceptional Family Member Program screening before dependent travel will be authorized. For information regarding the EFMP screening contact your local medical facility or EFMP Coordinator at your local ACS. EFMP services are limited in Hanau. Be sure to file the EFMP screening form prior to arrival to ensure your Exceptional Family Member will have access to needed help. For more information see www.efmconnections.org

Food stamps and WIC

Food stamps are not available overseas. The Women, Infant, Children Overseas Program (WIC) serves members of the Hanau Community. Once you're overseas it's impossible to sign up for Supplemental Security Income and Supplemental Disability Income through the Social Security Administration. If you or a family member have a disability, you must sign up prior to coming overseas. Visit your local Social Security Office. This could make a significant difference in your income.

German currency

Many European Union countries use a common currency called the euro. In Germany, euros are required for purchases off American caserns. The rate of the U.S. dollar to Euro varies. The rate is announced by American Forces Network Radio and Television and can also be found in the Stars and Stripes newspaper daily. Service members stationed in this area receive a Cost of Living Adjustment. Which is a tax-free entitlement based on current living costs in a geographical area. German stores do not readily accept credit cards. Be prepared to have euros on hand or to withdraw from an ATM once you reach Germany. ATMs onpost will allow you to withdraw dollars or euros.

Your sponsor can open a mail box on your behalf with a copy of your orders. If you need a sponsor, see:

https://www.sgate.hqusareur.army.mil, the gateway to Europe website. Opening a mailbox prior to arrival allows you to ship items needed upon arrival.

Medical services

Medical and Dental services in Hanau are limited. There's often a wait for an appointment as service members have priority. Whenever feasible, schedule routine appointments prior to your arrival in Germany. Additionally, medical care for others than active duty is provided often by German doctors on the economy.

Blood pressure check

Privately-owned vehicles

When shipping a vehicle, timing is important. Shipping of a vehicle can take six weeks or longer. Only one vehicle may be shipped at Government expense. There is no authorization for reimbursement of rental vehicles to replace the shipped vehicle. However, for individuals wishing to rent a car at their own expense, it is usually cheaper to rent in the States. Individuals interested in renting a car in the overseas area, should ask their sponsor about rental cars and rental requirements for that specific area. Sponsors are generally willing to help with transportation needs, but be considerate – they are merely being helpful.

There are restrictions on shipment of autos to some overseas areas. Military and civilian personnel who want to ship vehicles overseas must present an original certificate of title or a certified copy of the title, according to U.S. Customs Service regulations. If the vehicle is leased or has a lien, the shipper must also present a letter from the lien-holder authorizing shipment. Shippers are encouraged to review the Military Deployment and Distribution Command (SDDC) pamphlet, "Shipping Your POV" at the following website: http://www.mtmc.army.mil/CONTENT/8808/DBCN8808.pdf.

For general questions, telephone the SDDC at 1-800-843-8755, DSN 328-3333, or commercial (703) 428-3333.

Individuals must have their overseas driver's license (which is obtained after arrival at the overseas duty location) and proof of purchase along with a warning triangle, a first aid kit, and, in some countries, a fire extinguisher before picking up and registering their vehicle. The triangles, kits, and extinguishers may be bought at the Post Exchange (PX). The vehicle will have to pass a safety inspection to be registered. Vehicles must be able to accommodate license plates on both the front and back. Car repair, even at a PX, is expensive abroad. Parts and tires, especially for American cars, may not be readily available. Although anything can be ordered, it is generally wiser to have all repairs done before shipping. There are a number of large cars, even in Europe, but handling and parking them can be more than a little challenging as roads, parking spaces, and areas in general tend to be much smaller than in the States. Leaded gas is impossible to find in many European countries so it is no longer necessary to remove the catalytic converter before shipping. Car insurance is very expensive overseas, especially for some specialty automobiles or sports utility vehicles with large engines. Try to get a quote before shipping to get an idea of what to expect.

Individuals who ship a car should keep and bring their stateside vehicle registration. Also, KEEP the shipping documents for the duration of the overseas tour, even if the vehicle is replaced.

Individuals who do not ship a car can arrange to purchase a new or used vehicle pretty easily, once overseas. Remember that any car purchased or brought overseas has to pass a basic safety and emission vehicle inspection to be registered.

In-bound Shipments

U.S. Customs requires personnel to have a copy of the title to their vehicle. The title must include the vehicle identification number or, if the vehicle does not have a VIN, the product identification number. If there's a lien on the vehicle, there must be written approval from the lien holder to take the car from the U.S.

All personnel must have their car registration and proof of car insurance in order to ship POVs. If the vehicle is delivered by someone other than the service member, there must be a signed letter of authorization, simple power of attorney or other acceptable evidence. The agent must have proper identification and all other documentation required to ship the POV. POVs must have no more than 1/4 tank of fuel.

Personnel who shipped a POV at government expense should provide the ITO PPPO with a copy of their orders and the DD Form 788 shipping document. An informational paper and directions to Mainz-Kastel, where you'll pick-up your vehicle, are available at the PPPO.

The POV Pamphlet, "Shipping Your POV" can be printed from the following website: www.mtmc.army.mil. Information regarding the status of POV shipments also can be obtained on the website: www.whereismypov.com.

Personnel should be prepared to pick up their vehicle by bringing a valid ID card, USAREUR driver's license, copy of DD form 788 Private Vehicle Shipping Document, a complete set of keys and a Power of Attorney if a spouse or agent picks up the vehicle.

Registration

Once the POV has arrived you must obtain a USAREUR registration. To register vehicles, you must have DD form 788, original double white insurance card, vehicle registration application form, stateside registration or title, valid ID card, valid USAREUR driver's license and a $15 check or money order. You have five working days after receiving your temporary USAREUR license plates to have your vehicle inspected.

The Vehicle Registration Office is located on Pioneer Kaserne, Building 48, DSN 322-8335, 8115. German law requires a standard first-aid kit and warning triangle in all POVs. Before buying insurance, soldiers should see their unit commander and be briefed on the difference between German and American tariff rates. Auto insurance is expensive in Germany.

Your car must pass an inspection for safety, condition and reliability. It's recommended that any needed repairs be completed prior to shipping your car to Germany. Labor and parts are very expensive and parts may take time to arrive in Germany. Check vehicles for rust, chips, cracks in the windshield and oil leaks. Inoperative lights, horn, speedometer and other items can prevent your car from passing inspection.

Since German streets are very narrow, consider leaving your large car or truck in the States.

Auto Repair

Army Air Force Exchange System (AAFES) has only one service garage in Hanau. There is often a wait for an appointment at the garage. There are many garages on the economy that can work on American cars. See the phone book for local service garages.

Auto skills bay

AAFES-Gas-Station - Wolfgang Kaserne

Car insurance

Germany has a high cost of living. Prices for auto insurance are especially expensive. Variables include your age, your car's age, engine size, make, model and weight. German liability insurance, which is mandatory, ranges from 400 to 1000 euros per year. Shop around when purchasing insurance.

Car seats

Car seat requirements are different in Germany than in the U.S. All children under 12 years of age who are smaller than 4'11" or weigh less than 50 pounds must use an approved child seat or booster seat. Children up to 36 months or up to 40 pounds must use a car seat. Children ages 3 to 11 or 33 to 80 pounds must use a booster seat. Failure to use these devices may result in a fine.

Driver's licenses

The minimum age for driving in Germany is 17. Soldiers and U.S. civilian employees must have a stateside license or a country license to obtain a USAREUR certificate of license. Prior to departing, ensure that your stateside driver's license is current and not near expiration. Possession of a valid stateside license expedites licensing in USAREUR. Personnel must hold a USAREUR POV Certificate of License in order to operate a private auto off-post. Individuals are no longer permitted to use a military license in lieu of a valid state or country license to obtain a U.S. Forces POV Certificate of License for any class. If you do not have a valid license, you will be able to get licensed but the process will be lengthy and expensive. The German driver's license (Führerschein) costs approximately 2000 euros. A copy of the Driver's License Study Guide is available at www.hanau.army.mil.

It's recommended that you study for the driver's license exam before you arrive. The laws and street signs are different than in the U.S. and can be confusing. Personnel requiring child care during the driver's orientation and test may utilize hourly slots on a space available basis.

Gas

Gas is good quality and purchased in liters instead of gallons. AAFES gas stations are few and far between. For your convenience, gas coupons can be purchased at AAFES and can be used at specified gas stations on the economy. Without gas coupons, you would pay approximately $5 for a gallon at a German gas station. With the gas coupons, you pay average stateside prices.

Hoopties

A Hooptie is what we call an old car that runs great. If you're looking for a second car or simply something very inexpensive to drive, check out the resale or "Hooptie"

Privately-owned weapons are not allowed in Germany

Lot on Wolfgang Kaserne. You can pick up a Hooptie for $500-$800 and sometimes less. When your Hooptie no longer runs, you may drop it off at the Auto Craft Center for $30. Contact MWR Auto Craft Center at Großauheim for more information on car disposal. Never abandon a car in Germany, including on the Kasernes. The penalties are very stiff.

Privately-owned weapons

Service members are no longer allowed to ship, transport or hand carry privately-owned firearms to Germany. This is necessary to avoid the possibility of German criminal prosecution for unauthorized possession of weapons or punishment under the UCMJ.

Required Documents

Important documents to hand carry include – orders, immunization records and medical / dental history, marriage certificates, divorce decree, passports, social security cards, wills, power of attorney, school records, car title and shipping papers, car registration, car insurance policy, driver's license, household goods shipping inventory, employment records and references, pet records, credit cards, and a copy of your last leave and earnings statement.

Value-added tax (VAT)

The price of goods in Germany includes a 16 percent tax (Mehrwertsteuer). ID card holders can use a VAT form to receive an exemption from this tax for purchases over 25 euros. VAT forms are controlled documents regulated by both the VAT office and the German government. Contact the VAT office for rules and regulations. In Hanau, it is located at the Community Activities Center on Fliegerhorst Kaserne. In Büdingen, it is located on Armstrong Kaserne, Building 2204.

What to pack

When you think about what to pack, what to mail and what to bring along, keep in mind that Army Community Service has a lending closet for relocating service members, civilians and their families. Pots, pans, dishes, silverware, coffee pots, irons, baby cribs, car seats, and more can be signed out to personel waiting for their household goods. The Housing Office has a furniture branch as well as an appliance branch. They can lend furniture for 90 days and appliances for the extent of your tour. Unfortunately, there is no agency that has linens for temporary use. Consider hand carrying, mailing, buying, or shipping these items early.

here are a number of agencies involved in the relocation process to assist incoming personnel. The Relocation Assistance Program at Army Community Service (ACS) provides welcome packets to newcomers. These packets are full of valuable information about the Hanau area. ACS also maintains an installation library containing welcome packets from military installations throughout the world. These packets can provide you with all the information to help you prior to your arrival in Hanau and to prepare you for a smooth transition when you PCS to your next duty station.

The Relocation Program offers a Newcomers' Orientation to give new members of the community a taste of the exciting area into which they have moved. Participants learn the basics about trains, buses, the market, parking, and dining out in Germany. Additionally, the Greeter Program will assist your family with your move and transition to Germany.

The Greeter will in-process your spouse and family into the community while you conduct your military in-processing.

Army Community Service: Claudette Marshall (AER officer), Jenny Peaster (Outreach Coordinator / AFTB Program Manager) with a customer

Civilians and military members are authorized sponsors to assist them with the relocation process. Civilian employees may contact the Hanau CPAC to request a sponsor. Service members may go to the Sponsorship Gateway to Europe website at https://www.sgate.hqusareur.army.mil. This site allows service members to find out their pin-point assignment, communicate with their gaining unit and link with a variety of web-based resources. The Relocation Readiness Program at ACS provides resources to sponsors as well as incoming personnel. Be sure to contact your local ACS or the Hanau ACS with any questions.

Appliances

Individuals are advised to not bring major appliances such as washers, dryers, refrigerators, stoves, or microwave ovens. Due to the difference in electricity cycles, U.S. appliances that use timers of any sort do not work properly abroad – even if they can use 220-volt electricity. In addition, many European houses do not have enough space or proper water hookups for American washers and dryers. In Europe, most washers and dishwashers heat their own water and so need only cold water hookups. The sponsor can provide assistance in getting specific information from the installation's Directorate of Public Works. Because the houses, apartments, and the rooms themselves are often smaller than in the U.S., many people coming overseas store some of their furniture. However, before putting items in storage, think about doing without them for three to five years.

Banking and Money Exchange

Individuals working overseas can keep their CONUS checking account and/or establish one at the Hanau bank or credit union. Individuals can also keep accounts both CONUS and overseas; just keep in mind the mail delays in deposits made to CONUS banks. Paychecks must be electronically deposited; most other payments from the government can be electronically transferred but some deposits have to be mailed. An ATM card is very useful and can often be used in major cities of most European countries. American dollars and local currency can be obtained at ATMs, banks, and credit unions on the kaserne.

People find they use cash much more than they did in CONUS. Although many stores and hotels take credit cards, they are not as commonly accepted as in the U.S. If a check is needed in a currency other than dollars, the bank or credit union can provide one for a nominal fee. The bank can change several different types of currency, but large quantities or non-local currency may have to be ordered a few days in advance. Exchange rates are generally better in the country of the currency's origin, so it is a good idea to wait until arriving before exchanging. It is easy to find exchanges; they can be found in airports, train stations, banks, and money exchange offices, but DO NOT deal with street changers – one can expect to be cheated or worse. It is always a good idea to have a small amount of currency in advance, whether for the cab driver or a cup of coffee, before money exchange can be made at local facilities. Currency for many of the former Eastern Block countries must be bought in the country. Also, be aware that there is a fee for exchanging, so avoid changing too much money. The following countries use the Euro as a common currency: Austria, Belgium, Finland, France, Germany, Greece, Ireland, Italy, Luxemburg, Netherlands, Portugal, and Spain. If you have German bills (telephone, traffic tickets, utilities) you can pay them at the banks on post. Otherwise you'll need to pay at the German post office.

Driver's License

Current United States Army Europe (USAREUR) rules require all members of the U.S. Forces, including civilian employees and family members, to have a USAREUR driver's license to operate ANY vehicle overseas. This license may be obtained ONLY from a USAREUR driver testing facility--not in the States. An international driver's license will work in the short term. Sponsors can provide a copy of the USAREUR driver's handbook so that individuals may study for this driver's test. Individuals who will be stationed in Germany can get the Driver's Handbook and Examination Manual for Germany, USAREUR Pamphlet 190-34, by accessing the USAREUR Web Site for publications at https://www.aeaim.hqusareur. army.mil/library/pam/pdf/aep190-34.pdf

A written test is required for individuals possessing a valid driver's license from any state. BE ADVISED however – it is challenging. Studying is a must to successfully pass the test. The test is a combination of road sign recognition and multiple-choice questions on a variety of driving and safety topics.

Individuals must continue to hold a valid state driver's license and a military driver's license or a German driver's license (former German assignments only) in addition to the USAREUR license. Anyone planning to drive in Europe must obtain a valid state driver's license before leaving the United States

Electricity

The electrical current in Europe is different than that used in the U.S. The voltage is 220, not 110. In addition, the electrical current cycles are different which means devices such as clocks, washing machines, stereo equipment, computers, or any other electrical appliance with a timer may not operate properly, even with a transformer. Finally, the plugs and wall outlets are different. Does that mean all electrical appliances should be left in storage? No. Major appliances should be stored, especially if government-loaned items are available. Other appliances, such as hairdryers, blenders, etc., can be used with the aid of transformers (to reduce the electricity to 110 volts) and plug adapters. Lamps should be brought as they are the easiest to convert – all they require are different light bulbs and plug adapters, both readily available in the Post Exchange (PX) for nominal cost. New electric clocks can be purchased overseas. Most people find it much more convenient to also replace small appliances used every day, such as hair dryers or coffeepots, with 220-volt appliances purchased either in the PX, second-hand stores, or on the economy. They get better performance than dual voltage versions and are more convenient than having to use a transformer all the time. In addition, transformers are not cheap and they consume a large amount of electricity when plugged in, even if the connected appliance is not in use. Many electronics (TV sets, VCRs, stereo equipment, etc.) are now made to switch voltage automatically. That makes life easier but be sure to check the setting before plugging it in. However, plug adapters will still be needed.

Electrical outlets do vary among the European Countries, so universal plug adapters will be needed. The PX is the best sources for these plug adapters.

Emergency Travel

Soldiers and civilian employees may receive emergency travel orders and fly back to CONUS on a Military Airlift Command flight (if space is available - Space A) should the following situations occur:

- Death of employee's spouse or an immediate family member
- Death of the employee or a dependent family member in the overseas area (only when the funeral is at the home of record and the surviving employee or spouse is required to return to the overseas area after the funeral)
- Presence of employee or a dependent needed for welfare of seriously ill or dying immediate family member
- Family problems due to serious illness or injury of immediate family member, laying a responsibility on the employee or spouse that cannot be met while overseas
- Divorce cases when custody of children is an issue once a suit has been filed and a trial date has been established
- Any other emergency situation in which failure of the soldier/employee or his or her dependents to return to CONUS would create severe and un usual hardship for the employee, spouse, or immediate family members

The unit or for civilian employees, the Civilian Personnel Advisory Center (CPAC), prepares the emergency travel orders that are needed prior to traveling after official verification by the American Red Cross (an official Red Cross message number is required). It should be noted that in the event that there is no space available on a Military Airlift Command flight or if the military flight center does not have flights to the ultimate destination, any travel costs in lieu of or in addition to the space available flight are paid by the employee. Further, individuals under emergency travel orders are not entitled to per diem or travel costs reimbursement. There is no separate leave category for 'emergency leave.' Any leave taken is chargeable to annual, or if applicable, to sick leave.

In-transit Emergencies

The Passenger Reservation Center at Scott Air Force Base assists soldiers and family members traveling to and from overseas tours on official orders. Typical actions handled include requests for leave extensions, arranging or changing port calls, resolving passport and visa problems and arranging next-of-kin overseas travel under invitational travel orders.

The center is staffed Monday through Friday, 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Eastern Time. In an emergency, there is a duty NCO who will respond to the automated answering system. All emergency calls will be returned within one hour. The Center can be reached by calling 1-800-851-3144.

Financial Counseling

Consumer and financial counseling services and Army Emergency Relief are available. AER provides emergency financial assistance to service members, families, retirees, widows/widowers and orphans of service members. Assistance is provided in the form of interest-free loans, grants or a combination loan/grant. AER college scholarships are available for children and spouses of service members serving OCONUS. Financial Readiness provides information about debt liquidation, personal budgeting, consumer affairs, and other financial matters.

A financial counselor can work with you to improve your financial status and to plan for your future. Financial Readiness has listings of long distance call plans, mobile phone plans and internet service providers to assist new residents with making choices about services. Contact the ACS Financial Readiness office at DSN 322-9027 or Army Emergency Relief at DSN 322-9525 for an appointment. You can also apply for loans at any Red Cross station at major airports or by seeing the Red Cross on Pioneer Kaserne.

Financial Preparedness

Moving to Germany need not be expensive. Many of the costs are off-set by the Cost of Living Allowance, Move-in Housing Allowance and a Living Quarters Allowance. MIHA is a flat payment for miscellaneous expenses that military personnel with families living in government owned or leased quarters incur.

If you decide to live in off-post housing your lease must be approved by the housing manager. To live off-post you'll be expected to pay a 1300 - 1500 euros deposit (around two times the monthly rent) which is put in an interest-bearing account and returned to you (with interest) if no damages are found when you leave. You'll also need to make deposits to utility companies (electricity or gas). The average unfurnished apartment or house in Germany will rent as a bare dwelling. Most German apartments do not include ceiling lights, appliances or window screens. The furniture office will supply furniture and appliances as available.

If you decide to live in government quarters you will avoid deposits on rent and utilities, but you'll have other move-in expenses. A deposit of about 55 euros will be required for a telephone. There's always the cost of buying groceries, supplies, curtains, etc.

A large expenditure will be automobile insurance. This is considerably higher than in the U.S. Average insurance costs are $80-150 a month for one car. Rates will depend on the type of car and your own driving record. Liability insurance is required. Check your current insurer and ask for a letter stating the length of time you have been insured and the types of claims you have had. This letter could help reduce the amount of insurance you'll pay.

You may also need money for a rental car until your POV arrives. If you don't have a vehicle you may need to purchase a car over here. Consider these needs when deciding how much money to bring with you. You may want to bring about $1500 with you to help cover items you forget to ship, broken and lost items, or for setting up house.

Gas and Gas Coupons

Gasoline is expensive on the economy in Europe. The NATO Status of Forces Agreement (SOFA) allows the sale of fuel coupons to authorized members of the NATO forces free of local country taxes on a controlled basis. Gas coupons are used primarily to buy gas on the economy to help defray some of the cost. Gas coupons are not expected to cover leisure activities and vacations. When privately owned vehicles are registered, owners receive a copy of AE Form 190-1A, USAREUR POV Registration / Title Certificate, which conveys their gasoline allowance and is used as their ration document for gasoline. Individuals may purchase up to 400 liters per month. The registration document must be presented every time gas is purchased at AAFES gas stations and when gas coupons are purchased. The amount purchased is annotated on the registration document. Gasoline may be purchased with the coupons at most ESSO and BP stations, and some ARAL stations on the autobahns only. Gas is dispensed in liter increments rather than gallons. Coupons are issued in a variety of denominations in the same book for the user's convenience. There is no change or refund from the gas station if the coupons exceed the amount of liters that have been pumped.

details and watch for recurring publicity on offerings and registration procedures. Surviving in Europe without speaking the host country's language is quite possible, but the tour will be more enjoyable and individuals feel more comfortable in the community with some familiarity with the country's culture, customs, and language. Europeans appreciate an effort to speak their language - it is their country after all - and are very accepting of less than perfect results, so don't be afraid to give it a try.

Household Goods

In-Bound Shipments

Personnel who have shipped unaccompanied baggage or household goods should in-process as soon as possible with the Inbound Section of the Installation Transportation Personal Property Processing Office (PPPO). To speed up the in-processing time bring one copy of each of the following: complete set of orders, to include amendments if applicable, inventory / shipping documents for UB and HHG, and DD Form 788 and POV shipping documents (http://www. mtmc.army.mil/CONTENT/8808/DBCN8808. pdf). Personnel who need to release property from storage should report to this office with all documents concerning the property in storage.

Contact Inbound at DSN 322-8047 / (06181) 88-8047. The PPPO is located on Pioneer Kaserne, Building 21.

Host Country Orientations and Language Classes

The Inprocessing Training Center as well as United Service Organizations (USO) offer local area orientation programs and introductions to the German language. Also, the Education Office offers conversational language classes at several levels of difficulty, as well as college credit language courses. Contact these offices directly for

Out-bound Shipments

Plan Ahead. Personnel expecting orders can prepare for their reassignment by contacting the Out-bound Section of the Installation Transportation Office. Ask at the reception desk for an out-bound packet. Orders are not required to complete the paperwork, but are required to set up an appointment for shipment. Secure a packet and complete all forms to the best of your ability. Due to limited appointments, keep your scheduled appointment. If you require an exception to policy to any regulations, get busy; exceptions can add up to four weeks to your processing time. Army Pamphlet 55-2, "It's Your Move" can be printed from the website: http://www.usapa. army.mil/pdffiles/p55 2.pdf.

A weight estimator form can also be filled out on the MTMC website and turned in during the scheduled personal property briefing. Single soldiers living in the billets may request 1,000 pounds of additional weight entitlement above the authorized weight listed in the table below. Requests must be in writing addressed to the ITO for approval.

Weight Allowances

Your weight allowance is the maximum weight that can be moved at government expense under the Joint Federal Travel Regulations. Related to your pay grade, this allowance includes the weight of household goods you ship, place in storage and send as unaccompanied baggage. You, not the transportation officer or carrier, are responsible for staying within this weight allowance. If the weight of items packed, shipped and stored exceeds that amount you must pay all charges connected with the excess weight. For this reason, estimating the weight of your household goods is very important.

Estimates should start early, even before you visit your transportation office to set up the move. The counselor at your transportation office will ask how much weight you will be shipping. An easy and fairly dependable method for making this estimate is to figure 1,000 pounds per room (not including storage rooms or bathrooms) and then add the estimated weight of large appliances and items in a garage, storage rooms and basement. As a double check later in the movement process, count the number of items on the

Grade	Allowance with Dependents	Allowance without Dependents
E1	5,000	1,500
E2	5,000	1,500
E3	5,000	2,000
E4	8,000/7,000	7,000/3,500
E5	9,000	7,000
E6	11,000	8,000
E7	12,500	10,500
E8	13,500	11,000
E9	14,500	12,000
W-1	12,000	10,000
W-2	13,500	12,500
W-3	14,500	13,000
W-4	17,000	14,000
0-1	12,000	10,000
0-2	13,500	12,500
0-3	14,500	13,000
0-4	17,000	14,000
0-5	17,500	16,000
0-6+	18,000	18,000

Weight Allowances

inventory form used by the carrier. Then multiply the number by 40 pounds.

This is another rule-of-thumb method for estimating the weight of your shipment. If, while your goods are being packed and loaded, there is evidence that the shipment will exceed your weight allowance, you may want to call your transportation office. They can estimate the costs associated with your excess weight. This way you will be prepared for the extra charges you'll have to pay.

If you're separating from the service and will not remain in a pay status, excess cost must be paid in advance of this shipment. In some overseas areas administrative weight allowances are set on the amount of household goods that can be shipped at government expense. If you're being provided government furniture, for example, the government will not pay to ship your full JFTR weight allowance.

If you're affected by an administrative weight allowance, the counselor at your transportation office will let you know how many pounds you can ship. The chart above is for a three-year tour.

Lending Closet

While you're waiting for your household goods to arrive, bring a copy of your orders to the Lending Closet and they'll be happy to lend you dishes, pots and pans and basic kitchen items to help you settle into your new home. Some basic items for children are also available – portacribs, strollers, car seats and high chairs. Lending Closets are available at Hanau ACS in Building 9 on Pioneer Kaserne and at the Büdingen Outreach Center in Building 2207 on Armstrong Kaserne. The Lending Closet does not have linens for loan due to health regulations.

Lodging

The main reception desk for Hanau Lodging is located in the Argonner Inn on New Argonner Kaserne. The desk is open 24 hours-a-day, 7 days-a-week, except holidays. Holiday hours will be posted.

Argonner Inn is primarily for use by single persons and couples, however families may be placed in adjacent rooms. The inn offers guests comfortable rooms with private baths, a TV, VCR, clock radio, commercial telephone, iron, ironing board, hair dryer and a small refrigerator. Two VIP suites and one junior suite are available for ranks O6 and above.

Pioneer Inn is intended for use by families consisting of three or more people. Each of these apartments consists of a large living / dining area, kitchen, private baths and up to four bedrooms. Laundry facilities are located in the building and several playgrounds are nearby. These units are fully furnished and come with TV, VCR, clock radio, commercial telephone, iron, ironing board, and hair dryer.

Mail and Postal Facilities

Individuals assigned overseas are authorized a Post Office Box at one of the Community Mail Rooms. Once travel orders have been received, a sponsor can reserve a mailbox and provide the new personal mailing address to you. This enables you to send change-of-address information to correspondents. As with any move, it takes between 30 and 60 days for changes to take effect with correspondents and magazine companies. The sooner they are provided the new address, the less delay and problems will be encountered. Don't forget to put in a forwarding order with the United States Postal Service before leaving the U.S. The Military Postal System (MPS) uses U.S. postage stamps and rates. The MPS moves mail to and from designated CONUS locations, so individuals do not pay overseas mailing charges -- a first class stamp gets letters to and from an overseas APO just as if it were still within CONUS. Individuals will still receive magazines, catalogs, and packages without having to pay international rates, saving a large amount of time and money. Customs forms are required to send packages to and from APOs.

Newspapers, Television, Radio, and Movies

Since most of us are not fluent German, we are dependent on English language media for information and entertainment.

The Stars and Stripes is an English language newspaper published seven days a week for members of the U.S. Forces. It is a source of international, U.S., and local area news with regular features such as comics, advice columns, classified ads, etc. In fact, the main item missing is advertisements. There are some, but unlike U.S. newspapers, the news stories predominate. The Stars and Stripes is sold by AAFES bookstores, in machines on U.S. installations, and is available by home delivery in some communities. Additionally, the Herald Union Newspaper offers stories about communities within the U.S Army Garrison-Hessen footprint. The Herald Union is published every two weeks, is free, and available throughout the community.

English language cable television is available for government quarters. The Hanau Telekom (TKS) office is located on Wolfgang Kaserne (06181) 520-538. The Büdingen Office is located on Armstrong Kaserne, Building 2205. Basic cable includes the Cartoon Network, Turner Classic Movies, NBC, EuroSport, MTV, CNN, multiple American Forces Network channels. There's a monthly fee for basic cable.

If you are arriving from an area with 100 cable channels, there are going to be some withdrawal symptoms; just remember there are other things to do in Europe besides watch TV. American Forces Radio and Television Service offers two radio stations (one AM, one FM) with rotating formats in attempt to serve all listening interests. These offerings are commonly called American Forces Network (AFN). There are also TV channels with a good variety of network series, movies, sports, and news. There are no commercials. AFN also broadcasts segments of interest to local communities including weather, exchange rates, community events, and other items. Cable services are available in installation housing areas or satellite dishes may be purchased. Both have some English language offerings such as MTV, CNN, ESPN, and similar channels. A multi-system TV will probably be needed to receive cable or satellite programming. European broadcasts are in a different format from that of the U.S. and cannot be received on most U.S. TVs. AFN can be received on U.S. TVs after renting or buying the AFN satellite package. Multi-system TVs are available for purchase from AAFES and can often be bought second-hand. For additional information visit the AFN web site http://www.afneurope.net.

Note: In Germany, individuals residing on the local economy may be contacted for payment of the Gebühreneinzugszentrale, known as the GEZ. This is a basic fee that is paid based on the number of radios and televisions that are in the household. U.S. Federal employees DO NOT have to pay this fee. Employees who receive such a bill, should contact the GEZ and inform them that they are members of the U.S. Forces and are exempt from such fees.

Hanau Kasernes have several video rental stores. Two movie theaters (in Hanau and in Büdingen) are also available. There are often cinemas in the local community that show English language films. It should be also noted that DVD players only play DVDs of the same region. This information will be somewhere on the product. Some products are multi-regional. The regions are listed below.

Region 1: U.S., Canada, and U.S. Territories

Region 2: Japan, Europe, South Africa, Egypt, and the Middle East

On the same note, televisions must be multi-system or American (NTSC) to handle American video game consoles, VCRs, DVD players, etc., while multi-system or European (PAL) televisions are needed for European consoles, VCRs, etc. European video games (marked "PAL") will not work in American (NTSC) consoles and vice-versa.

The world is divided into three main television standards:

- NTSC, used in North and Central Ameri ca and Japan
- PAL, a German-invented system used in the UK and most of Europe, Africa, Australia, and South America
- SECAM, used in France (its inventor), eastern Europe, and Russia

The Germans and their system of "Phase Alternating Lines" (PAL) added 100 more lines of resolution to the picture (625 versus 525 for NTSC) and improved the color system to get more consistent hues. This is the system currently in use in Austria, Germany, Switzerland, and almost all of Western Europe (except France). This means that a television set from the US (NTSC) will not be able to receive PAL transmissions, simply because its screen and working innards are a TV of a different color. Buy a multi-system television that handles all three TV systems. Then you don't have to worry about which system you're using, or even where you are.

Digital TV and DVD

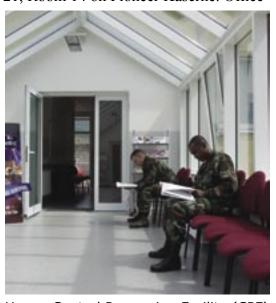

The emerging digital television standards offer only limited hope for a world-wide TV system. It appears that the world will continue to be divided up by television standards even after the introduction of terrestrial-broadcast digital TV. Europe, Japan, and the US each seem determined to use slightly different digital television broadcast standards, continuing the current television Tower of Babel, albeit with a better picture. The new flat plasma and LCD digital TV screens can usually handle either PAL or NTSC (if you have the right tuner or other equipment). But the introduction of DVD ("digital versatile / video disk") once again divided the world into several incompatible DVD video formats. Mostly for copyright reasons, the DVD world is divided into six worldwide regions. A DVD movie disk from America (Region 1) will not play on a normal German (Region 2) DVD player, or vice versa. Most DVD players in computers can switch to another Region Code, but some are easier than others to convert and there is a five-time limit.

Out-processing Procedures

The Hanau Central Processing Facility (CPF) recognizes that transitioning can often times be very difficult. To alleviate stress and to make your move flow smoothly the CPF has several services to assist you. For more information, stop by Building 21 or go online to www.hanau. army.mil. There you'll find helpful tips. Upon receipt of orders, service members are required to drop off a copy at the CPF office for pre-clearance. Approximately 12 business days from departure date, service members must bring a printed copy of their orders to the Out-processing office to pick up official clearance record. After obtaining all required signatures, soldiers will return for their scheduled final-out appointment. At this time, they'll receive all required documentation and the final cleared stamp from the CPF.

The Hanau CPF is located in Building 21, Room 14 on Pioneer Kaserne. Office hours are Mon-Fri 8:00 a.m. to 4:30 p.m., closed for lunch from 11:30 - 12:30 p.m. Out-processing briefings are held at the ITC, Building 20, Room 4A.

Reservations are not needed and the briefings are open to all Soldiers that are departing from the community within 120 days. Service members can obtain information from all agencies on how to best clear the community with little to no complications. Spouses are encouraged to attend.

Passports

Individuals and their families going overseas will need official passports prior to traveling (the Government will cover this expense). This is the first order of business for the move overseas. You may begin the passport application process prior to receipt of the travel orders. Tourist passports will be needed for personal travel; these are easiest to obtain while in the States. The most common delay in obtaining passports is that many people do not have the required birth certificates with raised seals. These should be requested from the state Bureau of Vital Statistics where the person was born. It is also a good idea to have a couple extra copies. No additional documents are necessary other than the application for individuals who already have a passport, even if it is expired.

New passport information – The State Department requires both parents' consent to obtain passports for children under 14.

Both parents must sign the passport application forms unless one parent is unavailable because of geographic separation, divorce or other circumstances. In this case the parent applying for a child's passport needs a signed statement from the absent parent that gives permission to take the child overseas. For more information, see the U.S. State Department website or your local Personnel Service Battalion.

Ration Cards

Because of host nation tax laws, some items are rationed in the commissaries and Post Exchanges (PX), especially gas

(see GAS and GAS COUPONS above). Other rationed items in Europe include cigarettes, distilled liquor, and coffee. A ration card will be issued through the employee's organization. The Government ID card is needed to obtain the ration card. The ration card and ID card must be presented when buying a rationed item. Separate ration cards are issued for each adult family member with authorized privileges and should be more than adequate for his or her needs. DO NOT abuse the privilege. Using the ration card to purchase items for someone without authorized privileges (except as a bonafide gift) is a violation of both military regulations and host nation tax laws. A result of abuse may include loss of privileges, fines, and disciplinary action

Reservations

Although you can contact Army Lodging at 1-800-GO-ARMY-1 for information, it's recommended that when booking a room you contact the Hanau Lodging main office directly at 011-49-6181-9550, 1700 or DSN 322-1700.

Reservations can be made up to 60 days in advance but are subject to prioritized placement guidelines, which are open to all ID card holders. When making reservations, have all personal information available such as social security number, arrival and departure dates, number of people, pets and special needs. In case of non-availability Hanau Lodging will provide phone numbers and assistance with nearby German hotels. All individuals on orders must contact Hanau Lodging main reception at Argonner Inn for availability status or statements of non-availability. Contact Hanau Lodging for current rates and charges. There are many support services for soldiers, DoD civilians, retirees and family members in the Hanau Military Community. Check with your local ACS for details. Lodging is located on New Argonner, Building 203 (Main Reception), (06181) 9550, 1700

Telephone and Internet Services

Telephone and Long Distance

Phone service isn't much different from that in the States. On the other hand, some newer houses, for example, are pre-wired for FAX and modem lines in addition to telephone. As in the U.S., individuals may buy or rent a telephone. It is cheaper to buy the phone overseas rather than rent one. Also be aware that American modems may not be compatible with European phone systems. Individuals who plan on calling the U.S. on a regular basis should look into the various long distance services available from the local telephone service provider or through a commercial service. American cellular phones may not work here – the frequencies are different from those used for overseas service and can interfere with other users. Check with the service provider to see if the phone is compatible for overseas (multi-band) use.

There're no free local calls as in the States. The cost of each call varies based on the length of the call, the time of day and the distance of the call. There is also a basic charge for monthly service and a one-time installation fee. The TKS store in the PX on Wolfgang Kaserne will assist you. They'll contact the Telekom in your city to establish your account. They'll also make sure your bills are in English. There're also English speakers at Telekom.

There're several independent companies with varying rates for stateside calls. Ask your colleagues and check local advertisements when choosing your long distance service. The Financial Readiness Program Manager at ACS has a listing of services available. You may want to consider obtaining a pre-paid calling card. Long distance phone cards obtained in the States are not valid in Germany.

Internet Services

Individuals may choose from a variety of Internet service providers. The local telephone company, the PX, the Stars and Stripes newspaper, local post newspapers, sponsors, and co-workers can provide information about what is available in the local community. Internet connectivity is limited in some barracks.

Pets

Transporting Pets

Bringing a pet to Germany is an important decision. Only two pets are authorized in military housing and few off-post landlords allow pets. Since most families will reside in stairwells, bringing large pets to Germany could cause stress for you, your pet, and your neighbors. Be sure you consider your future living conditions before transporting pets.

Animal registration and immunization of pets owned by military and U.S. civilians is required by USAREUR regulation. Owners must register pets within two weeks of arrival in Hanau. Pets are required to have a current rabies shot (less than 12 months prior to arrival). It's recommended that all vaccinations be up-to-date. Please hand carry all records. Pets require a health certificate issued within 10 days of flying. Pet space is not always available through AMC. Remember that many airlines have restriction on flying pets during the summer and under specific weather conditions. Be prepared to make alternate arrangements. Consult the airline for more specific information. Enlist the help of your sponsor to help resolve any animal import concerns.

According to new laws passed by the German government, certain breeds of dogs, categorized as "fighting dogs" are under general prohibitions against breeding, trading and obtaining. The specific breeds involved and the specific prohibitions differ according to the state of residence. U.S. citizens under the jurisdiction of the U.S. military must comply with these laws. For the most current information, contact the Hanau Veterinarian Clinic, DSN 322-8160.

Germany does not quarantine dogs or cats. Their law requires that pets must be vaccinated for rabies annually and the certificate kept current. An identification tag must be worn on the animal at all times and, when not confined, dogs must be on a leash. Pet owners should bring veterinary records with them during inprocessing. The Hanau Vet Clinic cannot provide emergency care. A list of local veterinarians that provide full services is available at the Hanau Vet Clinic. Most German doctors speak some English or have English-speaking personnel.

Shipment of pets is the responsibility of the pet owner. Payment for transportation, vaccinations, and proper documentation is the responsibility of the pet owner. The government does not reimburse such costs, associated with bringing a pet overseas. Each airline and country has specific transportation requirements that pet owners must follow. Many airlines have "heat restrictions" when the temperature rises above a certain limit and they will not ship pets during those periods. Individuals should be sure to inquire about such restrictions when making their arrangements for shipment of their pets. For example, when shipping a dog and/or cat into the Frankfurt Airport, there are requirements that must be met in accordance with German Law. The owners must decide if they will accompany the animal or ship it separately. In either case, a bilingual health certificate (dated within 10 days of shipping) and current rabies vaccination (given 30 days to 1 year before arrival) are required. Most U.S. civilian veterinarians and all CONUS military veterinarians have the bilingual health certificate. If the pet accompanies the owner on the flight there are no additional country costs, and clearing customs with the proper paperwork is quick and easy. If the animal is shipped separately, there are additional requirements and a fee. Pets are allowed in temporary lodging, but there is a fee.

Pet Care

The Hanau Veterinary Clinic offers routine, scheduled care such as immu-

Pet checkup in Büdingen

nizations, checkups, and scheduled surgeries such as neutering and spaying for a fee. Appointments are required. The vet clinic DOES NOT provide emergency care or kennel facilities. Local vets will have to be used for any emergency services. A full range of American pet care items and foods are available through the commissary Post Exchange. If you need help to find Veterinarians please contact the Vet Cinic DSN 322-8160 / (06181) 88-8160

Pet passports

Pets crossing European Union (EU) borders with their owners need a passport. The new passports are issued only at off-post veterinary clinics. The little blue booklet, valid in all 25 EU member countries, costs about 12 euros, depending on the facility and if shots are up to date. Though the pet passport may look like a human passport on the outside, the inside is actually full of medical information necessary for travel.
Owners have the option of adding their pet's photo. Pets must either have a microchip implanted or a tattoo for identification, as well as current rabies shots.

The mandatory microchip may halt American travelers, since the microchip used in the EU is different from those used in the States. This difference in chips makes it impossible for the other country's chip readers to view the information. Owners either have to get a European chip for the pet while in the EU or get it tattooed to get the new passport. Those who prefer to have someone else watch their pet while taking a holiday need not worry about the new passport. Travelers should talk to their local veterinarian prior to making a trip outside of the EU with their pets, since more paperwork is needed than just the passport.

Utilities

Utilities are more costly than in most stateside locations. Utility bills are based on estimated usage. See the utilities section for more information.

Value Added Taxes (VAT)

Most European countries levy what is known as Value Added Tax (VAT) on all goods and services. It is somewhat like a super sales tax except that the VAT is included in the marked price of whatever is being purchased. Under the NATO SOFA, members of the forces and their families can often be exempted from payment of the VAT. On large purchases this exemption can make a big difference - the VAT can be as much as 22%. You may purchase VAT Forms, for a nominal fee, which can be used to save the VAT on purchases in Germany of less than 2,500 Euro. If planning on purchasing furniture, cars, or other big-ticket items over 2,500 Euro, contact the VAT office for procedures. Note: The store or company does not have to accept the VAT form. Some hotels also accept the VAT form. The VAT Office is located in the International Club at Fliegerhorst Kaserne. For further information on this benefit, visit www.mwr-europe.com and choose "Tax Relief' from the left side menu.

Voltage

Germany uses 220 volts, 50 cycles while the U.S. uses 110 volts, 60 cycles. All electrical appliances made for use in the United States must be used here with a transformer. Some appliances, such as clocks, do not work correctly when plugged into a transformer. Others, such as microwaves may deteriorate when returned to 110 voltage use. Transformers are equipped to handle different wattage. The wattage required should be listed on the back of the appliance. Many appliances are now available in dual voltage; they simply require an adapter. Don't discard your lamps. If your quarters are wired for 220 volts, all you need is a plug adapter for the outlet and 220V light bulbs. Make sure you purchase the correct light bulbs at the PX; they carry both 110V and 220V. The Self-Help Store on Pioneer Kaserne also has bulbs available for use in quarters. Many of the quarters in the Hanau Community have been renovated to include both 110 and 220 voltage. Be aware that the cycles have not been converted and this will affect all time-keeping appliances.

Pet care

he Housing Division and the Directorate of Public Works (DPW) staff are ready to assist you in obtaining your new home. You may contact the Housing Division at DSN 322-8982 or the DPW at DSN 322-1560.

To reach either the Housing Division or the DPW from the states, dial civ 011-49-6181-88-1560. The USAG Hessen website has a great deal of information at:

http://www.hanau.army.mil.

It contains an extensive section on the Housing Division including floor plans of some of our quarters, the Resident's Guide and Frequently Asked Questions. Housing and post information is also posted at:

http://www.onestoparmy.com.

There are nine housing areas in Hanau, including leased housing, totaling 2,207 housing units for all military grades. Housing areas are within a 5 to 30 minutes drive of the duty stations. Waiting lists are established for each bedroom and grade category. There are no specific location waiting lists. A person cannot request a housing for a particular housing area.

To be eligible for family housing, a service member must be granted command sponsorship. Family members may receive concurrent travel or deferred travel. Dependent travel authorization must be requested and approved before the family members arrive in Germany. Failure to meet these requirements may result in denial of Government housing for your family. During in-processing, the housing counselor will take your application.

Based on the information in your orders, you will be placed on the appropriate waiting list.

Barracks

Barracks are located on Pioneer, Fliegerhorst, Hutier, Underwood and Armstrong caserns. Be advised, units no longer issue linens to soldiers assigned to the barracks. Therefore, soldiers must provide their own linen. Dining facilities are located on these Kasernes.

Electricity

You will not have an electric bill if you live in government controlled quarters. It is, however, your responsibility to conserve resources as much as possible. If you live in privately leased housing, you may need to connect and pay for electricity. Your electric bill will be averaged throughout the year based on the prior occupant's average usage. Once a year, a final bill will be established and the usage average will be adjusted. The Housing Office will assist in setting up utilities.

Furniture

Support from the Furniture Support Center (FSC) is authorized for military and civilian personnel with orders stationing them in the Hanau or Büdingen Military Communities. If you're traveling on full JTR or you're a civilian on orders, you're authorized a 90-day loan of government furniture. Temporary furniture may be obtained from FSC when available, while you wait for your household goods to arrive. To be eligible for FSC support you must reside in government quarters, government controlled leased or economy quarters with the lease approved by the Housing Office. The type of furniture issued includes beds, wardrobes, dining tables and chairs, coffee tables, davenports, easy chairs, etc.

Government Housing and Government Leased Housing

There are multiple housing areas in Hanau, including leased housing, for all military grades. Waiting lists are established for each bedroom and grade category, so there are no specific location waiting lists. You are placed on the waiting list according to your eligibility date (date cleared last duty station) and the number of command sponsored dependents. Therefore, a person cannot request a waiting list for a particular housing area.

If you were on a restricted tour, your eligibility date is the date you cleared your last CONUS duty station or a maximum of 14 months previous from when your restricted tour ended. Personnel must provide supporting documentation with promotion sequence number or orders verifying (P) status for housing based on promotable status.

All quarters meet the adequacy standards established by regulation. The number of bedrooms and minimum square footage required by regulation are:

- 1 bedroom quarters 550 sq. ft.
- 2 bedroom quarters 750 sq. ft.
- 3 bedroom quarters 960 sq. ft.
- 4 bedroom quarters
 - 1190 sq. ft.

The majority of the housing in the Hanau Community is multiplex apartment buildings, consisting of three stairwells. Normally, six to eight families share a three to four floor stairwell entrance. Apartments have limited space for large quantities of oversized furniture. Most apartments have a living room / dining room combination, with smaller than average bedrooms. Kitchens are generally small and will not accommodate a separate kitchen table. Our housing assets do not allow personnel extra bedrooms due to excess furniture.

The standard voltage in Europe is 220V. Newly renovated buildings and some of our older government housing units have both 110V and 220V outlets. Most small appliances will work with a transformer.

Housing units are equipped with a stove and refrigerator. Newly renovated buildings have dishwashers and washers and dryers in them. Most of our buildings have common laundry facilities located in the basement of each building. There is no separate charge for use of washers and dryers; it's included with your government housing.

Government leased housing is made up of apartments, row houses, quad and duplex housing. All leased quarters are equipped with a stove and refrigerator. Laundry facilities are located in the quarters. Leased housing is currently located in Erlensee, Langensebold, and Hanau.

Due to the lack of excess government quarters, civilians who are not designated as Key and Essential must seek off-post private rental housing.

For additional information on housing in our community, see the army website: http://www.onestoparmy.com.

Housing Allowances

The Overseas Housing Allowance (OHA) rate is based on many factors: rental costs by location, pay grade and the number of dependents. The intent of this allowance is to provide service members housing compensation based on comparable civilian cost of housing in the overseas area.

For housing allowance, per diem, travel and transportation allowances, see www.dtic.mil/perdiem.

Customer Services DSN 322-8805;
Processing DSN 322-8938;
In-/Out-processing DSN 322-9968; Travel DSN 322-9727.

Housing Rentals

Do not seek a private realty company. First, Pet week go to the Community Home finding Relocation and Referral Services Office (CHRRS) located in the Housing Division on Pioneer Kaserne for assistance in obtaining housing. Single houses are hard to find; apartments are the standard type of housing in our area. CHRRS has a standard lease agreement for use with economy housing. Most landlords require 2-3 month's rent in advance as a security deposit. This is in addition to the first month's rent. Utilities are more expensive than in the U.S. Apartments are much smaller than American apartments and most do not have built-in closets or kitchens. Americans living in economy housing should secure household insurance. Insurance on pets is required. A military clause must be in the contract and is strictly enforced.

Pets

The pet policy for USAREUR allows government housing residents to have no more than two pets, either two dogs or two cats or one dog and one cat. Exotic and farm animals are not allowed; snakes, lizards, pigs, etc. Your dog or cat is required to be registered with the post veterinarian and must wear rabies tags at all times. Kennel style operations or the breeding of pets is not allowed in government quarters. German law assigns absolute liability to the owner of a pet. Pet insurance is available in Germany. Pets must be on leashes at all times when outside of the quarters. Additionally, the law in Germany is very strict concerning pet feces with fines up to 100 Euros for violations.

Sewage and Water

Sewage and water connection billing only applies to private rental housing. The Community Homefinding Relocation Referral Services offices will provide the connection information based upon your contractual requirements.

Each of the caserns within the Hanau community has its own major unit.

4th Brigade

Fliegerhorst is the home of 4th Brigade, 1st Armored Division. The 4th Brigade was constituted on April 16, 1986 in the Regular Army at Ansbach, Germany. Named the "Iron Eagle Brigade," it originally provided command and control for the Headquarters and Headquarters Company, the 501st Attack Helicopter Battalion, the 220th Assault Helicopter Company and the 224th Assault Helicopter Company. In December 1990, the "Iron Eagle Brigade" deployed to Southwest Asia with the 1st Armored Division to support Operation Desert Shield. In February 1991 the Brigade participated in Operation Desert Storm with 1st Armored Division as part of VII Corps and engaged Iraqi units including the Republican Guard.

In September 1991, 4th Brigade colors were relocated from Ansbach to Erlensee, Germany. 4th Brigade assumed command of the battalions of the 227th Aviation Regiment and the 4th Squadron, 7th Cavalry, which were formerly under the control of the Combat Aviation Brigade, 3rd Armored Division. On October 21, 1991, the 4th Squadron, 7th Cavalry was redesignated as the 1st Squadron, 1st Cavalry.

From December 1995 to December 1996, 4th Brigade was deployed to Bosnia-Herzegovina as part of a multinational peace implementation force during Operation Joint Endeavor. Aviation Task Force Comanche was the command and control headquarters for 120 Task Force Eagle helicopters that flew 33,000 hours to compel peace in the war-ravaged Balkans. On February 28, 1997 4th Brigade redesignated its affiliation from the 227th Aviation Regiment to the 501st Aviation Regiment.

From June 2000 to June 2001, 4th Brigade was again called upon to enforce peace in the Balkans. The Brigade deployed two Task Forces, Knightmare and Dragon to Kosovo. The overwhelming success of this operation helped stabilize the region and saved countless lives. Most recently, the 4th Brigade proudly served in Operation Iraqi Freedom for 15 months.

16th Corps Support Group

The 16th Corps Support Group (CSG) is located on Hutier Kaserne in Hanau, Germany, with subordinate units spread over locations in Hanau, Mannheim, Darmstadt, Babenhausen and Wiesbaden Germany.

The 16th CSG was constituted 29 October 1965 into the Regular Army and was activated 10 December 1965 in the Dominican Republic. On 25 October 1968, the unit was inactivated at Fort Benning, Georgia and redesignated 16 September 1987 in Germany where it exists to this present day.

On 1 May 2002, the 16th CSG was realigned to include the 181st Transportation Battalion located on the historic Turley Barracks in Manheim, Germany with the 485th Corps Support Battalion (CSB), also located on Hutier Kaserne, to increase their combat service support capabilities.

In March of 2003, the 16th CSG and its battalions deployed to Iraq in support of Operation Iraqi Freedom where it provided logistical support to include direct support maintenance, transportation and supply support to all units in the theater. The 485th CSB established base camp operations in Kuwait and then assumed the important role of convoy support operations at Peterbilt and Kenworth before relocating to FLB Dogwood and finally to Al Taji Military Base before returning to Germany in 2004. Commanding and controlling over 3000 logistical Soldiers, Team 16 armed, fueled, fixed, moved and sustained Combined Joint Task Force 7 forces for a year during combat and stability operations during Operation Iraqi Freedom.

The 181st Transportation Battalion established base camp operations in Kuwait at Camp New York, Camp New Jersey, Camp Pennsylvania and Camp Udari before crossing the berm into Iraq to establish convoy support operations at Cedar, Bushmaster, Dogwood, Taji and Anaconda. The battalion's assets played an important role in not only local haul but long haul mission carrying every class of supply.

In addition to Operation Iraqi Freedom, the 16th CSG has also participated in operations in Kuwait, Saudi Arabia and Kosovo.

USAG Hessen

USAG Hessen staffl

The genesis of the Hanau Military Community dates back to the end of World War II, when it was among 112 U.S. Occupation Zone communities in Germany and Austria selected for troop stationing as they required only minor construction.

In 1990 the U.S. Army, Europe, replaced Military Communities with Area Support Groups (ASGs) and subordinate Base Support Battalions (BSBs) to let tactical commanders concentrate on their warfighting mission. The 104th ASG, originally known as the Frontier Region, was established in Hanau in 1991 with BSBs in Hanau, Gießen and Fulda.

In the wake of the post-Cold War drawdown and the closure of ASGs, several BSBs transitioned to the 104th ASG. Some were later deactivated also, including Frankfurt, Fulda and Bad Kreuznach; Darmstadt was transferred to the 26th ASG after five years; Gießen was de- and reactivated, and Wiesbaden and Baumholder joined the 104th ASG.

At present the 104th ASG or USAG Hessen is composed of four BSBs – the 221st BSB in Wiesbaden, the 222nd BSB in Baumholder, the 284th BSB in Gießen, and the 414th BSB in Hanau. In 2002 the 104th ASG came under the newly established Installation Management Agency-Europe (IMA-E) and will reflag officially to U.S. Army Garrison Hessen in October 2005. The 414 BSB is currently in the process of merging with the 104 ASG to form USAG Hessen.

Today's mission of the Garrison is to provide equitable, effective and efficient installation management support and services that enhance the readiness and well-being of our Soldiers, civilians and family members, maintaining a reputation as the best garrison in USAREUR and the Army.

130th Engineer Brigade

Pioneer Kaserne is the home of the 130th Engineer Brigade, a V Corps asset. The 130th Engineer Brigade was constituted on May 5, 1943 as the 1303rd Engineer General Services Regiment. It was activated on July 15, 1943 at Camp Ellis, Illinois. The Regiment played an important role during World War II with campaign credit for Normandy, North France, Rhineland, Ardennes-Alsace, Central Europe and the Asian-Pacific Theatre.

Engineers move segment

The Regiment was inactivated on July 8, 1955 and its elements allocated to the regular Army. It was redesignated as HHC, 130th Engineer Aviation Brigade in Japan and subsequently inactivated on June 25, 1956. On June 16, 1969, HHC 130th Engineer Aviation Brigade was redesignated as HHC, 130th Engineer Brigade, and activated in Hanau, Germany. During Desert Shield, Desert Storm, 130th Engineer Brigade sent several battalions to Southwest Asia. From December 1995 to January 1996, all units in the Brigade, except the 320th Engineer Company deployed to Croatia or Bosnia-Herzegovina in support of Operation Joint Endeavor.

Units of the 130th Engineer Brigade were deployed to Kuwait in early 2003 and moved into Iraq in March where they supported Operation Iraqi Freedom with bridging and infrastructure support.

Brigade units redeployed to Hanau in late 2003 and early 2004. The 502nd Engineer Company became the first V Corp company-size unit to return for a second tour in Iraq when it deployed in September 2004.

The current brigade organization consists of the 54th Engineer Battalion (Combat Mechanized) in Bamberg, the 94th Engineer Battalion (Combat Heavy) head-quartered in Vilseck, the 565th Engineer Battalion and Headquarters and Headquarters Company of the 130th Engineer Brigade in Hanau, Germany.

Driving in Germany

Autobahns

Although the German Autobahn system is one of the best highway systems in the world, traffic in Germany is typical of a congested city. During vacation periods and rush hours, the traffic on the Autobahn quickly backs up. A Stau (traffic jam) may occur at caution points, construction sites or during environmental test stretches and will normally be posted. While typically no speed limit is posted on an Autobahn, there is a suggested speed limit of 130 km/h (80 mph).

How to Get There

On the Internet you'll find several route planners for Germany and Europe in the English language. Just enter your starting and destination address and the system will provide a map and driving directions. Try:

www.map24.de www.viamichelin.com www.mapquest.com

If you'd like to take your car to Frankfurt, it's recommended that you follow the Parkleitsystem you'll see on the main roads. This parking sign shows you which parking garages are available and still have parking spaces. The number next to each garage gives you the number of available parking spots.

Parking

The Parkscheinautomat (pronounced Park-shine-ow-toe-maht) is a German parking ticket machine. If you park by a sign that says "nur mit Parkschein" or "Parkausweis", you need a parkschein (parking ticket) or a parkausweis (parking permit). If your confused by the signs, check the other cars in the area. If they have a small piece of paper on the dashboard, you too need a Parkschein. Look around for the Parkscheinautomat.

Figure out how much time you need and look at the machine's instructions. Check if you can park there as long as you need. In high-demand areas (such as at the airport), the times can be short (15 minutes) and expensive (1 euro). You'll find this information as the minimums or maximums of either the money you insert or allowable duration of parking. Insert your money (the correct amount, it won't give change), press the green button and you're parking ticket will come out. Place your parkschein on the dashboard above the steering wheel, so the police can see that you've paid for the parking. Note the time on your Parkschein and be sure to return before your paid time expires.

There will probably be hours of operation posted on the machine or the sign at the parking area – Mo-Fr 9-17h. This means you must pay to park Monday to Friday, 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Outside of those times, parking is free.

The Parkscheibe (pronounced park-shibe-uh) is a blue cardboard or plastic dial that should always be in your car. When you see a sign saying something like: Nur mit Parkscheibe (parking only with parking disc), find your Parkscheibe, note the time you arrived and turn the dial until it shows that time. Put it on your dashboard so the police can see it. Now look to see how long you can park there, usually written under the "Nur mit Parkscheibe" sign, and return early enough to avoid a ticket.

A Parkhaus is a parking garage. At the entry gate there's a machine that issues cards or tokens. You take the card/token from the machine and the gate will rise allowing you entry to the Parkhaus. Take the card/coin with you. When you return, you must pay before you exit. Parkscheinautomats are usually by the Parkhaus doors. Insert your card/token and it will tell you how much you owe. After you pay the machine (these normally give change), it writes a digital signal into the card/token that you've paid and returns it to you. You'll then have a few minutes to go get your car and drive out. At the exit (Ausfahrt) insert the card/token into a slot before and the exit gate will open. If you exceed the time allowed to exit, you'll have to pay more. If you lose your Parkschein/token there will be an expensive penalty.

German Laws

Seat belts in Germany are mandatory for every person. You can be fined for not wearing seat belts and insurance companies can refuse to pay for injuries received in an accident if you were not wearing your seat belt. German law requires that infants and children under 12 or fewer than 49 pounds use a child-restraining device that meets German standards. Should you be requested by the German Polizei (police) to take an alcohol blood test, do not refuse. They can insist that you comply. Enjoy yourself, but when it's time to go home, take a taxi, public transportation or ride with a designated driver.

Germany has a Good Samaritan Law that requires everyone, in case of an accident, common danger or distress to render all aid which could be expected. Failure to render aid can result in a fine or imprisonment. Drivers must notify MPs of accidents on U.S. installations. Drivers must notify German police and MPs if an accident occurs outside of a U.S. installation. Drivers involved in a single POV accident that results in property damage must report the accident immediately or face charges of hit and run. In case of an accident, if your car is disabled and cannot be moved, immediately place your warning triangle out to warn oncoming traffic. It should be placed at least one hundred meters away from your vehicle. Next, call the German police at telephone number 110

(or use the call box). The military police should also come to the accident scene. You'll be required to give details concerning the incident. The military police will also need you to fill out an accident report at the station. You have the right to get a lawyer before making any statements to the German authorities. You may be asked by the German police to sign an accident report. The best thing to do is to write on the report, "I do not speak or read German and I do not understand this report" before signing your name.

When driving on an Autobahn, if you have a breakdown, it's best to bring your car to the extreme right parking lane, called the Standspur. The Standspur is provided for emergency use only. On the Autobahn, you will find white posts at regular intervals. On these posts, small black arrows point the way to the nearest emergency box. These call boxes are located, at 1 km (.6 mile) intervals on the entire Autobahn system. Simply lift the shutter and wait until someone from the local highway service answers and give the number of the call box so they'll know where you're located.

Transportation

Germany has one of the best public transportation systems in Europe. Trains and buses are modern and fast, and taxis will move you quickly through dense areas of the cities. Taxi services are available and can be found outside each Kaserne's main gate, although they're expensive. Most taxis start the meter at two euros and charge approximately one euro per kilometer. The Hanau shuttle bus runs weekdays (no holidays or weekends) with destinations including the Hanau Health Clinic, the Heidelberg Hospital, the PX and a number of the Kasernes. Pick up the latest schedule at Hanau or Büdingen ACS. A shuttle service to the Frankfurt Airport is provided by the Hanau United Service Organization for $75. The shuttle service fee can be reimbursed with your travel expenses; save your receipts.

Bus

For the adventurous, try riding the bus on your own. You may purchase a 'Tageskarte' (day ticket), 'Einfache Fahrt' (oneway ticket) or 'Rückfahrkarte' (round-trip ticket). A day ticket allows you to ride any bus in the city of Hanau for one day. To purchase one-way or round-trip tickets, you'll need to tell the bus driver your destination

Local Bus in Hanau

The Hanau bus system is called HSB. Their website shows all the routes and prices, but it's only in German, www. hsb.de. The main bus station is at the Hanau Freiheitsplatz. From there you have the option to take buses to any of the railway stations, suburbs or other nearby towns. You can buy your ticket from the bus driver or at a vending machine.

Rental Cars

You can rent a car while you wait for yours to arrive. Sixt Car Rental on Wolfgang Kaserne, Building 523, is an AAFES vendor with many vehicle rental options.

SATO

SATO is available for all your leisure travel needs – travel insurance, apartment / condo rentals, hotels, car rentals, package programs and individual city tour programs by rail, bus and air.

Contact SATO at phone number DSN 322-8435, (06181) 95370 or web site http://www.satotravel.com. Sato is located on Pioneer Kaserne, Building 20.

German Taxi

Taxi Service

City taxis can be booked to meet you at a pre-arranged location and time. Phone (06181) 24111.

Trains

Germany has an extensive train system. The train network has several types of trains: the local public transportation trains, the regional trains and the ICE (InterCity Express) trains. The ICE trains are those high-speed, bullet-shaped trains that connect the major cities -i.e.Frankfurt to Berlin. They only stop at major cities. The regional trains are also fast and connect all the cities and towns in a large geographic area, for example Frankfurt to Hanau. You can take the inter-connected rail systems all over Germany and they interconnect the local public transportation with the larger systems. The City of Frankfurt's transportation system is called RMV and provides S-Bahn (local fast surface trains) U-Bahn (local underground trains) and buses.

Visit the RMV website at www.rmv.de and you'll learn about the use of the ticket machines, the routes and much more. You'll find the English section of that website by clicking on the button "New in RMV Region" and then you'll have a language selection. Train tickets may be purchased from the main ticket office or ticket machines at the train station. Not all stations have a ticket office. Public transportation is excellent, timely and much easier than driving in many instances. Daytrips are especially interesting by train. The ride along the Rhine River from Wiesbaden to Cologne is particularly scenic.

Ticket machine - Hanau central station

Local trains are often more convenient than driving your car and you won't have to worry about traffic or the lack of parking in the cities. The Deutsch Bahn web site, http://www.bahn.de, offers an English language option and you can book your trip online.

ow to read the train schedule

Here are the basics to reading a German train schedule. The 4.47 train on this schedule only runs on workdays, hence the little crossed pickaxe symbol. Unless noted, trains run every day.

ZUG: TRAIN

This is the specific train number, a very good number to compare to "make sure" this train is the same one listed in your schedule. The letters denote a certain type of train, local, regional, or high-speed. The bike symbol means the train has a car where you can load your bike. Arrival times at major stations are listed under Richtung / Destination. If you want to go to a small town, you'll need a specific schedule for that line. That information is just not listed here

ZEIT: TIME

Because this is an Abfahrt / Departure schedule, the first column shows the time the train departs this station, Rodenbach. There are Arrival / Ankunft schedules posted in the stations too, so watch what schedule you're looking at. The very first train of the day on this schedule leaves at 0.12 – 12 minutes after midnight. Notice that Germans use periods instead of colons for their time designations, 0.12 instead of 0:12.

TIME BAR

The black bar 0.00 - 5.00 gives you a time frame, midnight to 5 a.m., to make it easier to find the train times you want.

RICHTUNG: DESTINATION

This column lists only some of the stops and the times the train arrives. Here you can see the train arrives at Langenselbold at 0.15, just 3 minutes after departure. It ends at Wächtersbach at 0.41.

The bulls-eye symbol means that all stations have been listed up to here, so you can tell that Langenselbold is the very next station, since no others are shown. The *note says "nicht 10. Jun '01" which means "not on 10th June '01 – This schedule has obviously not been changed since 2001.

ABFAHRT: DEPARTURE

Rodenbach Schedule headings are written in German and English, so read on to that second word. It's easy. Here, you can see that this is a departure schedule for Rodenbach.

GLEIS: TRACK

The 0.12 train will depart from track 2, but be aware, this can change at the last moment. Listen to those unintelligible announcements and be alert if everyone on your platform suddenly walks off to a different platform. I'd follow them. Just make sure there is not a train arriving before yours, they might be going for that one.

Spouses of active-duty Soldiers stationed in USAREUR should take advantage of the Army Emergency Relief Spouses Scholarship Program. The MG James Ursano Scholarship Fund, managed by the Army Emergency Relief, applies to dependent children of Soldiers. Both the Education Center and Army Emergency Relief have the application packets and procedures. Education Center counselors also have information on other financial assistance available to students.

Department of Defense Schools

Department of Defense Schools serve the Hanau Military Community. The schools are accredited by the North Central Association of Colleges and Schools. Hanau schools were one of the pilot sites for the National Science Foundation Model School Project. This program allowed the Hanau schools to obtain the latest in classroom technology as well as increasing the availability of technology to all students.

Documents needed for registration are the child's passport / birth certificate, up-to-date shot records, a copy of travel orders with the family members names listed, sponsor's ID card and their previous school records. A copy of the registration form can be printed from the Hanau website. The school year generally begins at the end of August (before Labor Day) and ends in mid June. There are three elementary schools (with Sure Start, full day kindergarten and grades 1-5), one middle school (grades 6-8) and one high school (grades 9-12). Bus transportation is provided for students living outside walking distance. Students must obtain a bus pass. These can be obtained at the DoDDS Bus Transportation Office at Hanau High School, Building 251, Room 204.

Enrollment in the elementary schools is dependent upon the residence location. Hot lunch programs are provided at all schools. Lunch tickets may be purchased at the PX. The middle and high schools offer after-school extra-curricular activities.

All Hanau schools offer special classes for talented and gifted students who possess high intelligence, demonstrate high levels of achievement or talent and are academically motivated. The Renzulli Triad Model is the adopted program. Each school offers sports, drama, music, foreign language clubs, Odyssey of the Mind and host nation field trips among the activities offered.

Hanau Middle and High School are located on the same campus.

Both schools are relatively new, opening in the late 1980s. Both schools completed participation in the National Science Foundation Model Schools Project. This project allowed the schools to become very technologically advanced. Both schools have a large number of computers and technology is a major part of the curriculum. Both follow block schedules, with 90-minute classes over a 2-day schedule.

The schools offer a variety of coursework for students with various needs. Special programs include English as a Second Language, Talented and Gifted classes, Special Education classes and Advanced Placement classes. Approximately 39 percent of high school students take some type of advanced placement classes. About 90 percent of high school students indicate intent to attend college.

There are several local associations which offer scholarships to students. Students may also apply for JROTC and National Scholarships.

Dress code

Students must dress appropriately and in a way that does not interfere with the educational process. The final determination will be made by the school staff. Gang-related clothing, symbols or items that promote gang identity or behavior will not be permitted. Clothing or jewelry with symbols of drugs or inappropriate language is not allowed. Tank tops, muscle shirts, tops exposing midriffs, spaghetti straps, very short shorts or dresses are not allowed in school.

Extra-curricular activities

Activities offered at the middle school include Student Council, National Junior Honor Society, Literary Magazine, Yearbook, Drama Club, Band and Chorus. The Drama Club takes a trip to London annually to participate in the Shakespeare festival. High School activities include Future Business Leaders of America, Drama Club, Foreign Language Clubs, National Honor Society, Odyssey of the Mind, Band and Chorus. Each grade also has a class activity.

Grades

The middle school uses the traditional grading system. A score of 90 to 100 is an A, 80 to 89 is a B, 70 to 79 is a C, 60 to 69 is a D, and anything below a 59 is an F. Beginning in the 7th grade, there're several classes that middle school students can take that will earn high school credit.

The high school uses a grade point system. A score of 90 to 100 (A) is a Grade Point of 4, 80 to 90 (B) is a Grade Point of 3, 70 to 79 (C) is a Grade Point of 2, 60 to 69 (D) is a Grade Point of 1. Students having scores below 59 receive an F or grade point of 0. Advanced Placement and Honors courses are weighted by giving an extra point. The high school has three levels of honor rolls, the Principal's Honor Roll for those with grade points of 4.0 or higher. The High Honor Roll for students with grade points of 3.5 to 3.9. The Honor Roll is achieved by students having a grade point average of 3.0 to 3.4. Students require a minimum of 22 units for graduation.

Special Education

Hanau is designated as a Category 4 community for the purposes of the Exceptional Family Member Program and offers all services attendant to that designation. Low-incident disabilities are not supported in the Hanau area. When special educational needs are involved, many factors must be considered before an assignment is made. The decision for the best assignment is made by the Department of Defense Dependent Schools through 1st PERSCOM in Heidelberg. Hand carry your child's Individual Education Plan records and any updated information or re-evaluation. Schools in the Hanau area can provide services for mildly to moderately disabled students in all areas prescribed by a current IEP. If the student's needs cannot be met, that student will be transferred to Frankfurt or Rhein Main, where services for moderately to severely and profoundly disabled students may be provided.

Sports

The schools offer sports programs as does Youth Services. Middle school sports include exhibition wrestling, basketball, bowling, cross country, volleyball, gymnastics, track and tennis. Middle school students with exceptional skill may play on high school teams although they cannot letter or participate in tournament play. High school sports include basketball, cross country, football, golf, rifle, soccer, tennis, track and field and volleyball.

Employment in the

in the Hanau Military Community

Employment

Employment

pportunities for civilians are more restricted than in most stateside locations. Personnel who are not fluent in German have fewer employment options on the economy.

Jobs affiliated with the military are highly sought after by local nationals, retired military and Americans living in Europe as well as dependents of active-duty military. Because of the limited positions and stiff competition, it can take time to find a position.

Individuals desiring to work for German companies must comply with German work laws and regulations. Most civilians associated with the military population have several alternatives when seeking employment, although generally these have a connection to the military.

For a listing of types of government positions available, see https://cpolwapp.belvoir.army.mil/public/vabSelfNom/index.jsp.

To be selected for a GS position in the European theater an electronic resume, called the "Army Resume Builder", must be on file with Civilian Personnel On-Line.

To learn more about submitting a Resume, see

The Employment Readiness Program at ACS offers classes on how to write your federal resume. They can also provide individualized assistance in submitting your resume, locating job vacancies and preparing for interviews.

Army and Air Force Exchange Services, commisaries, and Department of Defense Schools are sources of civilian employment as well. Civilian companies provide contracted services to the Army and are also sources of employment.

For AAFES positions, speak to the Employment Readiness Program Manager located on Wolfgang Kaserne or visit www.aafes.com.

Private sector employment does exist; but taking a job on the economy may affect your status for U.S. Government employment. Check with the Family Member Employment Assistance Program Manager at ACS for information.

For more information, go to www.aafes.com or www.chrma.hqusareur.army.mil.

Military Medical Care

Eye checkup in the Hanau Health Clinic

The Hanau military community is primarily served by the U.S. Army Hospital in Heidelberg and the Hanau and Büdingen Health Clinics. The care available at the Hanau Clinic includes Pediatrics, Family Practice, Optometry, Gynecology, Well Woman, Well Baby, Acute Care and chronic follow-up care as appropriate. Medical Services at the Hanau Health Clinic are limited and referrals to the Heidelberg Army Hospital, Landstuhl Regional Medical Center or a German physician are often made. Emergency care is provided by the Stadtkrankenhaus in Hanau.

Clinic hours are 7:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m., Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, and Friday. Thursday hours are 1 - 4:30 p.m. Same day appointments can be made by calling: DSN 328-6600, 6601.

Dental appointments

Patients should use the walk-in care system for exams and sick call. After examination, further appointments will be made as needed. Retirees and pay patients are treated on a space-available system and are seen on a walk-in basis for exams and sick call. DoD civilian employees are eligible for emergency and sick call care on a walkin basis. They will be billed by the medical accounts office, Heidelberg Meddac for services rendered. When a patient cannot keep an appointment, it should be canceled 24 hours in advance. Appointments not canceled and missed are considered failed appointments. Your servicing clinical personnel are available to explain to you the policy on failed appointments. Military dental clinics throughout Europe offer a variety of specialty care and services. If the clinic nearest you does not provide the care you need, you may be referred to another military dental facility for treatment. Patients requiring emergency dental care after hours should call the Military Police Desk at 06181-180-2749. Onduty personnel will contact the on-call dentist to arrange treatment.

The Hanau Dental Clinic is located on New Argonner Kaserne, DSN 328-6520, 6522 or (06181) 500-6520, 6522. The Büdingen Dental Clinic is located on Armstrong Barracks adjacent to the medical clinic, DSN 321-4729 or (06042) 80-4729.

Dental care in the Hanau Dental Clinic

The Hanau Dental Clinic is located next to the Health Clinic on New Argonner Kaserne. Family members can expect to receive preventative, basic restorative and essential specialty dental care required to maintain good oral health for the duration of your assignment in Europe. It is recommended that before departing CONUS family members take advantage of the Tricare Family Member Dental Program by seeing a civilian dentist and receiving treatment for any recognized conditions.

The Tricare Family Member Dental Plan is available in Europe if necessary when specific types of care become unavailable. However, a referral from the dental clinic and proof of enrollment is necessary before you seek civilian care and you must go to a provider listed on the United Concordia website. Details are available at the dental clinic or at www.ucci.com. If you have family members remaining in the U.S., it is advisable to keep them enrolled in the insurance plan so that they may continue to receive care. It should be possible for family members to receive all or the majority of their dental care free at the Hanau and Büdingen Dental Clinics. Beneficiaries need to stop by the clinic for a basic examination between 7:30 and 10:30 a.m., Monday through Friday or 12:30 to 3 p.m. Monday to Thursday. After the initial examination, an appointment will be scheduled for any necessary dental work. Active duty military personnel and their family members have priority for dental care. Retirees and their family members will receive examinations and emergency care. Routine dental care for retirees and their family members is on a space-available basis. Check with your local dental clinic to find out what types of care are available. The Retiree Delta Dental Insurance Plan is not available for retirees while residing in Europe. DoD civilian and contract employees will be seen for emergency dental care on a fee-for-service basis.

German Health Care

There may be occasions when you are referred to a German health care provider. The German health care system has highly trained providers and the care is excellent. There are established relationships with a group of providers in the area who will have had their credentials verified and agree to accept Tricare. The Tricare office can help you set up appointments. Emergency care is provided by the Stadtkrankenhaus (Hanau's city hospital). There's English-speaking staff in the Emergency Room to assist patients and to process paperwork. Emergency medical care provided at the Stadtkrankenhaus is at no cost to patients enrolled in Tricare Prime.

Health Education / Awareness Classes

Army Community Health Nursing is a section of the Preventive Medicine Activity. Community Health Nursing programs include disease surveillance, health education, individual and family support services, community health consultants and travel medicine clinic. Hanau Health Clinic, New Argonner Kaserne, DSN 328-6693, 6695.

Tricare

The Tricare Europe program is modeled on the Tricare program in the United States but also provides services unique to the overseas environment. When you arrive in Europe, you will enroll and offer your family members the option of enrolling in Tricare Europe Prime. Tricare Prime has published access-to-care standards that we will meet to ensure that you receive quality, timely care. There are no deductibles and no cost-shares for authorized medical care delivered by host nation providers in Europe for active duty family members. In addition, you will enjoy the stateside Tricare Prime benefit if you are traveling in the United States and need to receive medical care.

Tricare Service Centers: Services are provided for you to access information about medical care in Europe and in CONUS. Some of the special services available through the Tricare Service Centers in Europe include:

Patient Liaisons – Bilingual staff are available to assist you in making appointments with host-nation providers and facilitate your care in civilian hospitals should you be admitted.

Preferred Provider Network – There are special relationships and agreements with select providers in Germany who agree to see U.S. military personnel and families and also agree to file the Tricare claims for you. Tricare Europe Standard is available and represents what was formerly the basic CHAMPUS benefit. By declining enrollment in Tricare Europe Prime your family members will incur costs for civilian care. The Tricare office can provide you with the options available to you.

Child and Teen Services in the Hanau Military Community

Child and Teen Services

$\mathsf{C}_{\mathsf{hild}\;\mathsf{Care}}$

Child Development Services is dedicated to providing a safe, happy and healthy environment for your child. Their goal is to provide quality developmental care for all children, ages six weeks to kindergarten age. The staff receives training in first aid and CPR, and instruction in child development through training sessions, workshops, seminars and on-the-job training.

Dual-military and single parents should register children online as soon as possible. Currently, there are waiting lists for child care for all age groups. The sooner you register your children, the sooner you will have child care after you arrive. Hourly care is available at all CDCs. Child care options on the economy in Germany are much more limited than in CONUS. German mothers typically do not work until their children are three years old and so the need for child care is much less, resulting in fewer resources.

Central Registration Office

Enrolling your child in any CDS or Youth Services program begins with a visit to the Central Registration Office. The registration process includes verification of current, original shot records, two emergency designees (not a parent), and a complete registration packet. A current physical must be submitted within 30 days of enrollment. Physicals completed in the U.S. within the past year may be used for registration. Children with special needs, i.e. asthma, food or other allergies, or receiving medication must have medical documentation prior to registration. The current yearly registration fee is $15 per child or $35 for families of three children or more. Dual-military parents and single soldier parents are required to provide a copy of their Family Care Plans within thirty days of registration. You may also register on-line at www.hanau.army.mil.

If you're planning on having a child, or are pregnant, you can get on the waiting list for infant care. A babysitting referral list is also available. The list includes information about teen babysitters who have received training. Central Child / Youth Registration Office, Building 20, Room 10, Pioneer Kaserne, (06181) 88-9144, DSN 322-9144. Hanau History

Goldsmith's house downtown Hanau

Gate of the Alzenau Castle

elcome to Hanau, Germany, the home of the Grimm Brothers, linguists and masters of German folklore. Unlike the typical tourist, you'll be here long enough to sample the lifestyle and to get to know the people. Explore Germany, take advantage of your weekends; they will slip away faster than you think. This can be the most exciting and memorable assignment of your military career.

The history of Hanau is both important and interesting. In the early hours of March 19, 1945 Hanau was violently attacked by a massive allied air strike. Close to 85 percent of Hanau was destroyed and it seemed the city, just 11 miles east of Frankfurt am Main, had suffered a mortal blow.

Today, Hanau is a small, bustling city of approximately 100,000 people. This figure includes the populations of the smaller communities of Wolfgang, Großauheim, Steinheim, Klein Auheim, Hohe Tanne, and Mittelbuchen as a result of a merger in 1974. Some 13,000 workers commute daily to Hanau.

Although Hanau received status as a city from Albrecht I in 1093, it was not until religious refugees poured into the city in 1597 that it began to flourish. Given religious freedom by the ruling Count, these refugees, mostly Dutch and Belgian Wallons, constructed a new city and started new trades, including gold and silversmithing. The refugees also built the Netherlands Wallon Double Church which stands today on Französische Allee as a monument. Hanau's Academy of Art was established in 1772 for the training of young people to work in the city's gold and silver trade. It's the oldest existing school of its kind in Germany.

The history of Hanau touched Americans during our Revolutionary War. A treaty was signed in Hanau in February 1776 to hire mercenaries. This treaty provided England's King George III with the first contingent of Hessian soldiers for use against the American Colonies. During the early years of the 19th century, Hanau was occupied by Napoleon's troops and its fortifications were destroyed. In 1886, Hanau fell into Prussian hands. At the beginning of the 20th century, Hanau's Main River port was built. This increased trade of all kinds. Despite the world wars, Hanau continued to thrive. Its gold and silver industries attracted gem and other precious metal factories. Today, the products of Heraeus, Quarzlampen Company, Dunlop Rubber, Degussa and many others are vital to the city's economic welfare.

Unlike most Army posts in CONUS, the Hanau military community is comprised of 17 smaller installations known as Kasernes. Each Kaserne has an interesting history of its own.

Pioneer Kaserne was built under Hitler's regime between 1938 and 1939. It was used by the German Railroad Recruiting and Training Battalions of the 3rd German Railroad Regiment. In 1944 and 1945 the Kaserne was damaged by an allied aerial bombardment and was later attacked by artillery fire. It was reestablished by municipal construction agencies organized by the U.S. Government. Pioneer Kaserne now houses the majority of the facilities for the support and welfare of military personnel and their family members. It's also the home of 102nd Signal Battalion, 55th Personnel Support Battalion and the 130th Engineer Brigade.

Fliegerhorst Kaserne was initially built for Hermann Göring's German Air Force in 1937. The construction plan provided for the project to extend over 15 years and was outlined in three phases. The project began in 1937, but due to the outbreak of WWII only the first phase was completed. In 1945, the U.S. Army occupied the Kaserne and used it as a signal depot, consisting of a maintenance division and a storage division. In 1952 the entire depot was transferred to Pirmasens; the installation was redesignated and assigned artillery, transportation, ordnance and aviation units of the 7th Army. Fliegerhorst currently houses aviation and maintenance facilities, government housing and support and recreation activities for service members and their families.

Wolfgang Kaserne was a former WWI ammunition factory. It was upgraded between 1936 and 1938 by the former Herresamt for use as an ammunition depot. Wolfgang is currently a modern facility housing the Hanau Military Community's shopping and entertainment district.

Yorkhof Kaserne was constructed between 1905 and 1911 and was first occupied by troops assigned to the German Army Post Depot. It's now the headquarters of the U.S. Army Garrison-Hessen.

Hutier Kaserne was constructed between 1908 and 1910. In 1920, these buildings where converted to civilian use including schools and a police headquarters. In 1936 and 1937 it was reconverted to German military use. It was at this time that the post was named Hutier in honor of a famous Prussian, General Oscar Von Hutier. Hutier is home to the 16th Corp Support Group.

Argonner Kaserne, named after the Argonner Forest, scene of the famous WWI battle, was constructed between 1937 and 1938 and occupied by the German Army Engineer NCO School. Argonner now houses medical, dental and veterinary services, a guest house, government housing, the Hanau Middle School and Hanau High School.

Büdingen is located 16 miles from Hanau and is nestled in the southwestern foothills

Historical part of Büdingen

Büdingen Castle

of the Vogelsberg Mountains. After the fall of the Roman Empire, the Franks, seeking to control trade and travel, built many forts in the area enclosed by the Taunus, Vogelsberg, and Spessart Mountains. One of these forts was located at Büdingen. In the 12th century, this small sandstone fort was replaced by a Carolingian style castle surrounded by a circular stone wall. The castle, which became the residence of the lords of Büdingen, has been occupied ever since. In order to protect the city, one prince constructed a wall and moat. The wall still stands and the old town is a beautiful example of late Gothic fortification. The Thirty Years War reduced the city's population from 1500 to 500.

Today, the city has approximately 7,000 residents. Highlights of a visit to Büdingen include the Rathaus and the Widow's Residence which are both fine examples of 15th century architecture. There are also numerous gates, walls and towers from the Gothic, Renaissance and Baroque periods.

The military installation in Büdingen, formerly known as Krüger Kaserne, was constructed between 1935 and 1939 for the German Machine Gun Battalion 3. This unit was replaced in 1939 by an anti-tank battalion which was stationed there until its deployment into combat in 1944. Following the arrival of the Americans in 1945, the Kaserne was named Armstrong Kaserne in honor of 1st Lt. Armstrong who served as an air observer for the 68th Field Artillery Battalion and was killed in action on Anzio Beach in Italy. Armstrong Kaserne is currently home to the 1st Squadron, 1st Cavalry Regiment of Dragoons. Büdingen is a must see place if for no other reason than to view the many varieties of frog figures that decorate the village businesses.

The German community of Gelnhausen is called home by a number of Hanau residents. Gelnhausen's official history begins in 1170 when Friedrich I (also called Barbarossa) founded the Nova Villa. Three considerably older villages were united and enlarged into one new city. Gelnhausen's location on the Kinzig River made it a prime location on a medieval trade route. Gelnhausen was one of the richest cities in the empire and attracted many wealthy merchants. From 1180 until his death, Barbarossa lived here for some time every second year. His son, Henry V, called the castle his most beloved place. Gelnhausen suffered under the Thirty Years War as well. It was raided and sacked and left uninhabitable and depopulated. After the war people came back slowly. However, those that returned were poor craftsmen and farmers, not wealthy merchants. Today, Gelnhausen has 22,000 residents and is the cultural and economical center of the Kinzig Valley.

iving in Germany can be wonderful, exciting and a great learning experience. While many Germans do speak English, you'll be surprised how far a few words in German will get you. To help you better understand and appreciate your German hosts, we have listed a few of their customs, traditions and laws. When introduced to a German, say "Guten Morgan" (good morning), "Guten Tag" (good day), "Guten Abend" (good evening) or simply "Tag." It's customary to give a greeting when entering a small business; when leaving say "Auf Wiedersehen" (good bye). It's considered impolite not to greet people at such times.

Climate

European weather is mild. The spring and summer weather in Germany is best described by saying it is cool and damp. The winter is cold and wet. The average winter temperature is 38 degrees Fahrenheit. Summer average temperatures stay in the mid 70s. Annual precipitation for the region is 24 inches.

Cultural Attractions

Germany is a land rich in cultural history and sites. Keep in mind that you're just hours away from some of the most amazing historical landmarks in the world. There is a castle (Schloss) in almost every city and town. Admission is usually minimal, one to five euros. The USO and Outdoor Recreation sponsor a wide variety of activities and trips throughout Germany and Europe at reasonable prices.

Festivals and Events

You will find monthly events, festivals and many happenings in Germany throughout the year. The Hanau Public Affairs Office contributes to the bimonthly Herald Union newspaper which lists cultural events and movie schedules. The Hanau website has information on activities on- and off-post. There you'll find a weekly update of "Things to do".

Germany is a country rich in festivals throughout the year. Some are not as well known as others, but all are worth experiencing. Starting in the last days of September and ending two weeks later, Oktoberfest is Germany's most famous festival. It takes place in Munich, the capital of Bavaria and includes carnival rides, acts, food and beer. Each year, the Oktoberfest sells hundreds of thousands of kegs of beer from Munich's most famous breweries. Though better known for its beer, Germany is one of the largest wine producers in the world. For two weeks in September, Bad Dürkheim throws a party. Germany has hundreds of wine festivals each year, but this is one of the biggest. It's a great way to familiarize you with German wine, people and all the festivities.

At the end of June and early July, Berlin holds the annual Berlin Film Festival, one of biggest and most exciting motion picture award ceremonies held in Europe. It's a chance to see fine international films and to catch sight of some of the world's brightest stars. To order a program, or to book a reservation, write to: Berlin Festspiele, Budapest Str. 50, 1 Berlin 30. The Cannstadt Volksfest is held September through October near Stuttgart, Germany. It's second in size only to Munich's Oktoberfest. It was initiated by King Wilhelm I over 150 years ago and is held on a large grassy field in the suburb of Stuttgart. This festival offers many amusement rides, booths selling handicrafts, food stands and beer tents with live music.

Fasching, also called Carnival, Fastnacht and Fasnet is central Europe's name for Mardi-Gras. It's a time of merrymaking that precedes the Lenten fasts. It officially begins on November 11 and ends on Ash Wednesday. The main celebration takes place on Rosenmontag, the Monday before Ash Wednesday, with parades, parties and dancing in the streets. Although there are many cities which host Fasching activities, the biggest parades take place in Mainz, Cologne, Munich and Düsseldorf.

On the first Saturday in June, July and September the famous Heidelberg Castle presents an illumination and fireworks display. Also during the summer, "Rhine Aflame" is held one night each month. This is an incredible evening of fireworks along the Rhine River with numerous castles as a breathtaking backdrop.

You probably remember the story of the pied piper of Hamlin ("Rattenfänger von Hameln") from your childhood. Now you can visit the town made famous by the legend and enjoy a show in its honor. Every Sunday at noon in July and August, the old town of Hamlin commemorates the fateful kidnapping of the town's children on June 26, 1284 in a two-part pageant and festival. For more information, see www.armygermany.com or www.hanau.army.

Nowadays, it has become a big mobile amusement park with some of the world's biggest state of the art fun rides (2005 dates: Mar. 18 to Apr. 10 and Sept. 9-19)

Christmas Market

Frankfurt's Christmas market is one of the really big and old Christmas markets in Germany. Every year it attracts about 3 million visitors and it can look back on a centuries-old history.

The origins of Frankfurt's Christmas market are likely to go back to the 14th century. The market on the Römerberg is beautiful and impressive. It is one of Germany's most important Christmas markets as well as one of the most lavishly decorated markets.

Bethmännchen and Quetschenmännchen (prune men) are typical Frankfurt specialties on the Christmas market. Nowadays the Christmas market offers a tremendous supporting program with Christmas readings, Christmas music, glockenspiel (church bells) as well as a visit by St. Nicholas.

The events take place in Frankfurt at Liebfrauenberg, Neue Kräme, Paulsplatz, Römerberg, Fahrtor, Mainkai. In general the Christmas market starts every year before the 1st Advent and ends two or three days before December 24 (2005 dates: Nov. 23 to Dec. 22). "Cold Market" (Kalter Markt) in Ortenberg

A highlight in this region is this traditional annual event at the last weekend in October. The "Cold Market", a big market with a great variety of booths scattered over the streets of Ortenberg. The supply features warm woolen clothes and other useful items for the winter (that is why the event is called "cold market" – get ready for the cold season). The fairground includes a farm machine and vehicle exhibition and in the exhibition tent they present local manufacturers' products.

Additionaly you can find a big amusement park on the market square, different bands, a dance group and a small children's festival. 2004 marked the 738th year for this event.

Hanau

In Hanau several local festivals are taking place like the Lamboyfest in June with a more than 200-year old tradition; the National Apple Wine Festival in Hanau-Steinheim at the end of August, featuring the coronation of the National Apple Wine Queen, and the Bürgerfest along the grassy banks of the Main River adjacent to Philippsruhe castle in early September.

Additionally, a nice Christmas market is held during December in Hanau.

More info on current local festivals is posted on our Website under Recreation/off-post/things to do.

Hanau Historical Sites

Schloss Philippsruhe is the most important early 18th century work of architecture in Hanau. The castle was built by order of Count Phillip Reinhard and completed in 1713. Today, the castle contains the History Museum, the Hanau Registry Office and a cafe-restaurant. Surrounding the castle and bordering the Main River are many paths through a scenic park. On the grounds surrounding the castle, the city hosts many festivals and periodically presents some of Grimm's fairy tales. The Deutsches Goldschmiedehaus (Goldsmith House) was built in 1537 and rebuilt following the last war. The Goldsmith House was once the town hall. It's one of Hanau's prettiest buildings and displays many works of gold and silver and other precious metals. Art exhibitions are frequently held there and often include works from all over the world.

Chalice in the Goldsmith house

The Puppenmuseum, located in the Wil-helmsbad Park, was built between 1777 and 1780 and is a popular place for outings. It has a museum of dolls and toys of interest to children of all ages. One of the oldest intimate theaters in Germany, reopened as the Comoedienhaus in 1969, is located in the park along with an old-fashioned carousel and castle ruins. A pyramid on the pool island was built by Prince Wilhelm as a tomb for his son. A suspension bridge, golf course and extensive walking paths are among the many attractions of the park.

You'll have the opportunity to take a short course called German Headstart when you inprocess. The course offers an introduction to the German culture and the language. Additionally, the USO offers German classes for a fee. If the language barrier is still holding you back, there's lots of help available on the web in the form of translation services. The translations provided by these services aren't perfect, but they do get the message across. German Dining Bratwurst stands, Imbiss, McDonalds and Burger King as well as Pizza Hut provide fast food opportunities. In German Gasthäuser and restaurants you can spend a relaxing time enjoying freshly prepared dishes. Visit a cafe for your favorite beverage and a snack, and many kinds of cakes and cookies. It's customary to spend an hour or more at a cafe. A bistro's menu is similar to that of a diner's. The emphasis is on hot food that doesn't take too long to prepare. A Gasthaus offers a fixed menu of complete meals and some also rent rooms.

A restaurant in Germany is basically the same as in the U.S., but without the rush. Be prepared to wait 20 to 30 minutes for your meal. Food is served when it's ready; some members of your party may receive their food much earlier than the rest, although good restaurants try to serve everyone at the same time. Often they eat their salad with the meat and not before. Traditional American tipping is not done in Germany. Instead, when paying your bill at a restaurant, simply round up or add one or two euros to your bill for the waiter. For large bills and great service rounding up five euros is reasonable. Many restaurants take reservations.

Post Office

The German Post Office (Bundespost) is very different than an American post office. At the Bundespost, you can pay telephone and utility bills, buy German stamps and make telephone calls.

Quiet Hours

By German law, 1-3 p.m. Monday through Saturday are reserved for the Mittagsruhe (mid-day rest). The law states that there can be no loud or unusual noise which would disturb persons who may be napping during this time. Another German law provides that there should be "no disturbance of the solemn character of Sundays and Holidays," this includes mowing the lawn and creating noise. Quiet hours are in effect all day on Sunday and German holidays. Quiet hours apply on the Kasernes as well.

Recreation

Germany comes alive in the summertime with bicycles as the primary mode of transportation and walking a close second. There are thousands of miles of biking / walking trails throughout Germany. Keep in mind that there is a 16 percent value added tax on all purchases in Germany. The price on merchandise already includes this tax, which you can avoid paying by using a VAT form. Before shopping, stop by the VAT office in the Community Activities Center on Fliegerhorst Kaserne.

Downtown Hanau has hundreds of specialty shops. An open-air market is located in the Marktplatz where a wonderful selection of fresh fruits, vegetables, eggs, meats, flowers and more can be purchased. Market days are Wednesday and Saturday.
